Nation-Wide Plebiscite Ordered as New Oath is Drawn for Reichswehr

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—President Paul Von Hindenburg died today and within seven hours Chancellor Adolf Hitler had succeeded him and ordered a nation-wide presidential plebiscite to be held Aug. 19.

Also within that 7 hours was formulated a new oath by which the reichswehr—the standing army of Germany—will pledge its allegiance to Hitler.

Von Hindenburg died in his 87th year at 9 a. m., E. S. T.) in his country mansion at Neudeck, East Prussia. Almost simultaneous with the announcement of his death came the announcement that the offices of the chancellorship and the presidency had been merged.

Hitler is both chancellor and president.

Any doubts as to what position the reichswehr, long faithful to Von Hindenburg, might take were dispelled, at least temporarily, by Werner von Fritsch, minister of war who announced that the army would take a new oath. It is expected to be administered within the next few days.

Oath For Hitler.

The oath reads:
"I swear by God this holy oath: That I shall be absolutely obedient to Adolf Hitler (the leader) of the German reich and people, Adolf Hitler supreme head of the army, and that I will be ready to have a soldier to give my life for this oath."

The ceremony of oath-taking will be followed by three cheers for the new supreme army commander—who is also the supreme commander of the Nazi storm troops and their black-shirted brethren the schutz staffel—and by the two German national anthems, "Deutschland Über Alles" and "The Wessel Song," the latter a Nazi anthem.

Funeral services for Von Hindenburg are to be held at 11 a. m., Tuesday at Tannenberg where he died. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m., Tuesday in the Tannenberg museum, near Heidenstein, east Prussia, instead of at the ancestral mansion at Neudeck where Von Hindenburg himself wished to lie.

LAREDO, Aug. 2.—(P)—Heavy showers fell here today. More than two inches of rain last week was regarded as of great benefit to farmers.

MEET SATURDAY TO CANVASS VOTE.
ELECT DELEGATES

MEMBERS EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND DELEGATES URGED BE PRESENT

Navarro county democratic executive committee and county convention will meet at the courthouse Saturday morning, according to an announcement Thursday morning.

The executive committee will meet Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to tabulate and canvass the returns of the first primary election held Saturday, July 28. The returns from the boxes are being tabulated, checked, etc. this week and will be declared after being canvassed by the executive committee.

The county democratic convention is scheduled to be called to order Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention which will be held the following Saturday, Aug. 11. The executive committee will also arrange for the tickets, and other matters of business pertaining to the holding of the second primary election, Saturday, Aug. 25.

All members of the executive committee and all delegates elected to the county conventions at precinct conventions are requested to be present.

HINDENBURG'S LAST STAND WAS TO END HITLER "PURGING"

REMARKABLE CAREER GERMAN LEADER IN WAR AND PEACE

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(P)—Death came to Paul von Hindenburg just a few weeks after he had stood again as a "sturdy oak" in trying times for his beloved Germany. The man whose active life spanned the first, second, and third reichs, in the stirring days following June 30 stood firmly by his principles as a loyal German and, at the same time, extended a protective hand over a man who had been one of his closest friends—Franz von Papen.

When Chancellor Adolf Hitler came to suppress rebellion in Nazi ranks with summary executions, von Hindenburg was already ill at his country estate in Neudeck. Word reached him of the activities of the Hitler firing squads and, at the same time, he heard how aides of Vice Chancellor von Papen had been slain and how von Papen himself was virtually under arrest in his private residence.

The aged president, even then seriously sick enough for the convening of a "major medical council" on July 1, sent word to the reichswehr (regular army) that he held in answer to what sort of steps he took to save the country from mutineers.

Hitler's plan was given out in Berlin as involving the removal of von Papen from the cabinet. It was intimated strongly that the conservative vice chancellor, who had been critical of Nazi radicals, was held to blame because he did not learn of alleged traitorous activities on the part of some of his aides and prevent them.

But when the cabinet met, after hours of discussion Hitler suddenly dashed to N. deck by airplane in answer to what sort of summons the public was not told. Saves von Papen.

The aged president, recovered from the illness sufficiently to be about, received the Nazi chancellery late at night. They were in conference for a long time.

Hitler flew back to Berlin and word was given out that von Papen would not be removed but that he might take a long vacation.

It was assumed that von Hindenburg had stepped in the way of removal of his friend, the man (Continued on Page Two)

Freak Tornado At Summer Colony Near Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2.—(P)—A freak tornado today struck Hickory Point, a summer colony near here, wrecked half a dozen houses, injured approximately a dozen people and buried a number of vacationists under a mass of debris.

The twister, which struck without warning, was preceded by a huge wave which swept up Gray's Creek. Residents said it was "10 feet high and 100 yards long."

GUARD IS CHARGED IN CONNECTION WITH PRISONERS' BREAK

PRISON OFFICIALS REMAIN SILENT; SIMMONS ISSUES LONG STATEMENT

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 2.—(P)—Details of the allegation against Jim Patterson, prison guard alleged to have aided in the sensational death house break here eleven days ago, remained hidden today with those in authority still away, evidently rounding up the loose ends of their investigation of the escape.

Patterson was charged yesterday with "conveying or causing to be conveyed" into the prison the three pistols which were used to effect the escape of Raymond Hamilton, Irvin "Blackie" Thompson and Joe Palmer, all condemned to death.

Patterson was quoted as saying after his arrest that "they have decided to pass the buck to someone—so I guess they decided to pick on me."

Deputy Sheriff R. E. Wood of Huntsville said the guard made that remark as he was being taken last night from Huntsville to Houston.

Patterson remained in the Houston jail overnight, then was removed by Captain A. N. Owen of the Harbison prison farm. It was understood that he was to be taken back to Huntsville but officers said they were not certain. Newspapermen were not permitted to talk with him.

It was understood that Warden W. W. Ward had been working on the investigation in North Texas for the past week.

In the absence of official statements, the following reports relative to the escape were circulated here:

A North Texas gang of outlaws former convicts and their wives and sweethearts hatched the plot and effected the escape.

Women involved in the ring "spilled" the story.

Warden Ward was said to have affidavits from some and some were said to be in North Texas jails.

EVENTS IN GERMANY NOT SURPRISING TO U. S. OFFICIALS

GERMANY'S FUTURE WITHOUT STABILIZING HAND OF HINDENBURG PONDERED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(P)—The death of Von Hindenburg, Germany's "Grand Old Man," and the assumption of the presidency by Chancellor Hitler came as no surprise to official Washington, but administration officials refrained from making any official comment on the political significance of the events.

Secretary of State Hull, immediately after being informed of Von Hindenburg's death, issued a short formal statement in which he expressed his sorrow at the passing of Germany's president and World War hero, but carefully avoided comment on the political angles.

Official Washington, however, has pondered the future of Germany without the stabilizing hand of Von Hindenburg with considerable apprehension. Little doubt exists in the minds of officials here that Germany now faces its greatest crisis.

Hitler as chancellor and president now assumes full powers of dictatorship, officials believe, but none care to publicly prophesy what Germany's future under his lone guiding hand may be.

Dr. Rudolf Leitner, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, prepared to pay a formal visit to the state department officially to notify the government of the death of the president.

The German flag over the embassy was lowered to half mast, as word was received from Berlin that Von Hindenburg was dead and the embassy, in common with the entire German government, went into official mourning after Von Hindenburg's funeral.

The embassy and all embassy engagements are cancelled all social gatherings.

DER ALTE DEAD; HITLER RULES

This picture was made when President Paul Von Hindenburg named Adolf Hitler as chancellor of Germany and marked the beginning of the ascendancy of the Nazi leader in German governmental affairs and the beginning of the decline of the aged president. With the passing of von Hindenburg, Hitler also takes over the presidency and is now absolute ruler of the German nation.

PERSONAL CONTACT OF VON HINDENBURG HAD BEEN ENDLESS

KINGS, NOTABLES AND EVEN THE MAN IN THE STREET FELT HIS HANDCLASP

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(P)—In the course of his long and extremely active life President Paul Von Hindenburg came into personal contact with a seemingly endless parade of humanity.

Kings were no strangers to his hospitality. Notables and celebrities of every country on earth knew his courtly pleasantness, and many a man on the street felt his firm handclasp.

The same vitality which carried him into stanch old age served him equally well in his dealings with his fellow men. Only in recent years did he shun receptions, entertainments and dinners that were a part of his public life.

Numerous Americans were received by him in formal and informal social life of the reichs president.

Jacob Guild Schurman, United States ambassador to Germany from 1925 to 1930, passed many hours in the company of the old soldier. When they met the conversation almost invariably turned to memories of Heidelberg University, and to Von Hindenburg's plans for the development of his Neudeck estate.

DEBTS, STARVATION AND RUIN FLOURISH IN MINNESOTA WHERE GRAINS AND CATTLE ONCE GREW

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 2.—(P)—Debts, starvation and ruin grew today on acres that bred fertile grains and cattle-fattening grass before drought plagued the land of Minnesota.

A blistering sun which sucked life-giving moisture from the soil and hot winds which ripped newly planted seeds from dry earth have left a path of desolation, a loss in cash of more than $150,000,000 to tillers of the soil.

Minnesota normally earns from 350 to 400 million dollars from grain and hay crops. Dr. Andrew Boss of the University of Minnesota farm school expects the income this year to be about half that.

Forty-four of the 87 counties are in the drought area. Western Minnesota farmers, whose suffering is the most severe, turned gaunt cattle into grain fields two months ago because pasture was burned up. The meager grain eaten, the cattle turned to leaves on trees to avoid starvation. Many failed.

Death in the slaughter houses or where they stood was the result. The government purchased 134,000 head, paying for them nearly $200,000,000—a drop in the bucket of the financial emergency confronting thousands of farmers.

Paul Kirby, crop reporter, said the state which once grew 137 million bushels of corn may reap 122 million this year. Oats which once ran 150 million bushels will be less than 60 million. Spring wheat is cut more than 50 per cent to a prospective harvest of 11,000,000 bushels as of July 1. Hay will have dropped from 4,000,000 tons to 1,747,000.

GERMANY'S GREAT FIELD MARSHAL IN PEACEFUL PASSING

DEATH SLIPPED INTO BIG YELLOW MANSION AT 9:00 THURSDAY MORNING

By GUENTHER BEUKERT

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

NEUDECK, Germany, Aug. 2.—(P)—President Paul Von Hindenburg, Germany's great field marshal, died at 9 a. m. today.

To the man who had fought in his 86 years of life through every hell of war, death came quietly.

It slipped into the big yellow mansion on the hill of the estate Von Hindenburg loved so well. It was this mansion that a grateful nation recently enlarged as a token of its gratitude.

At the bedside, when death came were four state physicians and members of Von Hindenburg's family, including his son, Colonel Oskar Von Hindenburg, and two daughters, Frau Irmeard Von Brockhausen and Frau Anna Marie Von Bantz.

The physicians had done their best against a prostate gland disorder and the infirmities of old age, but, at the last, all they could do was stand by, astonished that the strong old heart could stand out against these complications for so long. They had given up hope early last night.

All through the last few days the old man's mind had remained clear but, at the very last, it wavered.

Quiet attacks lowered the blue and white Hindenburg flag at the estate. The action was the first intimation to the world that "the sturdy oak" had withered.

Villagers Grief Stricken.

The news placed a pall of silence over this community and east of Germany as well. The sorrow of the villagers was to deep for expression. They stood dumb. To the residents of Neudeck and of the nearby city of Preussag, the passing of Von Hindenburg meant more than the death of a president—it meant the departure of a close, personal friend.

And that, here, meant more than any such question as the ascendancy of Chancellor Adolf Hitler to new power.

DEATH BRINGS OUT MEMORIES OF FAMED HINDENBURG LINE

LAST BULWARK CONSERVATIVE GERMAN BELIEVED NOW BE SHATTERED

(By The Associated Press)

Even as President Von Hindenburg was regarded by many conservative Germans as their last bulwark against the tide of the last defense of the German armies in France during the World War.

The death of the venerable statesman and general today was a month later, farthest and fiercest of the German struggle, the turn which led to the collapse of the Hindenburg line and assured Germany's defeat.

One of the most famous of world war fortifications, the Hindenburg defense was not literally a line.

It was a series of lines three major systems of trenches with many ramifications. These trenches stretched northward and northwestward from St. Quentin, occupied by the Germans. They blocked the path to Cambrai and ended near Arras, which was held by the British.

They formed a deadly area for the allied forces to invade. Well inside the German lines, the advance they had been heavily wired and studded with machine gun nests. The master mind in their preparation had been the Prussian chief of staff, Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg.

But the allies went through Canadian Launch Attack.

Canadians launched the attack on August 26, 1918, two weeks after Hindenburg had seen his advantage vanish. The Dominion soldiers and British Tommies bore the brunt of the battle, although Americans got into it more than a month later. Yankees and French forces were making their major drives further south.

The attack began outside Arras and swept forward irresistibly. By September 1, the British and Canadians then in the line were (Continued on Page Two)

National Mourning Was Ordered After Death of Von Hindenburg Today

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Copyright, 1934, By The Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(P)—Paul Von Hindenburg, warrior, patriot and president, died at 9 a. m. today, and Adolf Hitler became the master of all Germany.

Shortly after word came from Von Hindenburg's country estate at Neudeck that the 86-year-old hero had died, announcement was made here that Chancellor Hitler had assumed the presidency.

The president had been critically ill only since Sunday. Physicians expressed amazement at his heart's stubborn resistance to disease and the infirmities of age.

WORLD NATIONS AND LEADERS IN TRIBUTE TO VON HINDENBURG

UNIVERSAL RESPECT ENTIRE WORLD HELD BY DEAD GERMAN LEADER

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(P)—One of the first persons in the world to be informed of the death of Paul von Hindenburg was the field marshal's former supreme war lord, Wilhelm II.

General von Dommers, the chief administrator of Hohenzollern properties, told the Associated Press today:

"Col. Oscar von Hindenburg telephoned me immediately from Neudeck and requested me to report the field marshal's death to his majesty. This I did immediately."

"The emperor was deeply moved. During the last few days he had frequently called from Doorn to inquire of von Hindenburg's condition. He thus was prepared for the worst, but actually the news nevertheless affected him strongly."

"His majesty requested that the crown prince catch the first train for Neudeck to express the imperial family's condolences. The crown prince, tactfully, will leave the first day to the immediate family but tomorrow morning he hopes to be the first to place a floral wreath of tribute from the kaiser upon the death bed."

Secretary Hull Led In American Tribute

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(P)—Secretary Hull led official Washington today in paying tribute to the late President von Hindenburg of Germany in a statement asserting "the world has lost an outstanding figure."

The secretary of state was the first high official to comment on the death of the German president, as the news of his passing reached the capital during the present morning hours.

While official Washington was slow to comment on von Hindenburg's death, and the succession of Chancellor Hitler to the presidential post, the question on even (Continued on Page Two)

Strike Situation At Several Points Notably Relaxed

(By The Associated Press)

Military rule of Minneapolis was relaxed today after troops silenced the defiance of striking truck drivers with wholesale arrests; withdrawal of most of the national guardmen was ordered.

Representatives of employers and strikers at the Chicago stockyards were brought together; conciliators are hopeful for an early settlement.

Arbitration of the dispute on the Pacific waterfront, where maritime workers have ended their strike, is in the formative stage, with the International Longshoremen's Association to present its data tonight to employers.

A move for settlement of the Alabama textile strike was read between the lines of a general conference between the state textile council and an A. F. O. L. representative.

A decision on a general strike vote by New York building trades workers on PWA projects was deferred again, this time until Friday at the request of federal conciliators.

ANOTHER MEMBER OF RECENT NAZI PUTSCH SENTENCED LIFE

FORMER ARMY OFFICER ADMITTED HE HAD PART IN CHANCELLERY INVASION

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff.

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—(P)—Paul Hinder, a Nazi to go on trial for implication in the Nazi putsch in which Chancellor Dollfus was killed, today was convicted of high treason and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The sentence was imposed after a brief trial before a court martial, which had been generally expected to sentence Hinder, a former officer in the Austrian army, to death on the gallows.

Three other Nazis were hanged this week for implication in the putsch.

Hinder was wounded twice and decorated five times for bravery in the World War. He is 41 years old.

The former officer created a sensation in his testimony by stating that the federal employees of the chancellery did not have the feeling of being prisoners of Nazi seized the building.

Most of them yelled "Heil Hitler" when the putschists took charge, he said.

ROUGH EXTERIOR COVERED LOVABLE, HUMOROUS NATURE

GOOD NATURE AND SENSE OF HUMOR OF HINDENBURG SHOWN AT EARLY AGE

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—To Germany, Paul von Hindenburg was not only an unusual field marshal and president, but a lovable and loving character whose humor and good nature endeared him to the millions.

Death came to him 74 years after he wrote his last will and testament at the age of 12. That will of course, is not taken seriously but it testifies to the good nature and sense of humor which were two of the many qualities which marked his character.

When Young Paul joined the cadets of the School Wahlstatt he wrote a will providing that his toys should be distributed between his brother and sister. To a newly christened child, to bequeath a sandwich for breakfast every morning.

The postscript on this document was characteristic. It read: "Peace and quiet I ask forever."

Today on his writing desk in the dim study at Neudeck there still stands the inscription that was the guide to von Hindenburg's life and living. On a table, a small inscription: "Peace and Work."

The superior human qualities of Germany's dead soldier-president were exemplified by the following words which he spoke at the battle of Marston. "I am not a soldier," he said, "I am a man who has fought for his country. I am not a soldier, I am a man who has fought for his country."

Almost every day, I ran for two hours against the bitterly cold wind to bring to my conscience what hardships our poor soldiers had to stand up against out in the trenches.

HINDENBURG

(Continued from Page One) who had persuaded him to give the name to the new republic. Von Hindenburg not only was the hero of the German people, but even more so of the Reichswehr. He was generally credited with being the savior of Germany.

The 100,000 officers and soldiers in the Reichswehr, everybody in Germany believed, would do what von Hindenburg had done. They were faithful in his patriotism and good sense. Many reichswehrmen were veterans who fought under the president in the world war.

The Austrian crisis came as the old soldier was stricken with his final illness. But he was in touch with it. He was indicated by the fact that his secretary was with him during the important conferences which resulted in extending the olive branch to Austria.

An official was sent to confer with the president July 30, apparently to report to him on the developments in Austria.

Between June 30 and the end, von Hindenburg not only had the strain of domestic and foreign affairs but had to appear on one of the most important occasions of his life.

On this occasion—a few days after the "purge" of the Reichswehr, walking with cane, and some signs of illness, but bore himself in his usual soldierly manner as he stepped in the Reichswehr parade.

Grand Old Man Paul von Hindenburg, to Germany "Der Alte" or "grand old man" was to the rest of the world a rock-like bulwark of German unity and a force for stability when the post-war republic tottered on the brink of civil war and dismemberment.

Emerging from retirement after a quiet life, he was more than an ordinary life time and included two of the great wars of history, he undertook the duties of president of the reichswehr when he was 74 years of age, served his full term of seven years and then won reelection in April, 1925, for a second term.

Greeted first as a forerunner of restoration, then as a monarchist, he proved a staunch constitutionalist, did his utmost to preserve a parliamentary government and accepted the virtual dictatorship of Adolf Hitler in 1933 only when the German people voted for centralization of power.

Swift Changes Mark His Terms His two terms saw the decline of the social democrats who led the Reichswehr, the rise of the Weimar constitution; the rise and decline of the centrists under the late Gustav Stresemann and the late Friedrich Ebert, the rise of nationalism from which emerged the Nazis of Hitler. They were years of agitation, of fierce clashes between trained fighting units of the various political parties, of government by decree, of frequent elections as cabinet fell.

Germany, burdened by world war reparations, groaning under an increasingly heavy load of taxation and then sorely stricken by the world-wide economic crisis of 1929-30, swerved several times to the right and then to the left. But the iron-willed octogenarian president, with his agency, applied the discipline, adaptability and fatherly responsibility that had made him beloved by the nation in world war days and that had made him the most popular leader in Germany more than any other individual to hold together the republic of 68,000,000.

The twelve months beginning with Ebert's death were especially critical. At the start it was proposed to make von Hindenburg president for life, but the young executive put it aside. Convinced that political factions in the country in a ferment and at one with von Hindenburg was ready to resign. Brüning, Catholic center, was chancellor and in October 1930 he resigned.

After the parties of the right had been convinced by the primary election returns in March, with a New Year's appeal for disarmament and world peace. He urged his countrymen to settle their domestic differences but on February 15, when he announced his willingness to resign, he said he was undertaking the task in order to avert civil war.

He had three opponents in the election. Hitler, a candidate of the national socialists, Theodore Duesterberg, representing the nationalist and Ernst Thälmann, communist. Von Hindenburg led the field in the first balloting, failing to gain a majority by less than a half of one per cent. In the run-off on April 10, he defeated Hitler by nearly 6,000,000 votes.

On May 30 von Hindenburg offered resignation of Brüning's cabinet and named Franz von Papen chancellor. Recurring national parliamentary elections showed Hitler's gains steadily but August von Hindenburg refused to give the chancellorship to the Nazi leader and the latter declined a post as vice-chancellor.

On November 11, 1932, von Hindenburg refused to give the chancellorship to Kurt von Schleicher who instituted a rigid regime, but in the following February he asked the president to dissolve the Reichstag passed under the influence of the Nazis, gave Hitler dictatorial powers and dissolved itself, state governments were superseded by a central cabinet, anti-Nazi mayors were ousted, and thousands of political opponents of the regime were interned in prison camps. Hitler and his followers were outlawed and a new Reichstag was placed upon Jews that world-wide protests resulted.

It was a complete political revolution and von Hindenburg went along with it, but only as his position demanded. To the people he still was the symbol of German national destiny that he had been in world war days.

Throughout the morning, stern-faced guards and soldiers stood in front of the mansion. The Neudeck population, anxious to have a last look at their patron, were not allowed to leave their work to approach the house.

Strong measures were taken to preserve peace. Black-shirted members of the schutz staffs, the special storm troops, secret police banned traffic from the street.

Five miles away, however, in Freystadt, things were more normal. The people gathered in small knots on the corners. Shop owners stood in their doors and asked for further news on the last hours of the field marshal.

Flags at half staff flew from every building. The streets also were draped with black rope.

Church bells tolled. In the Freystadt church where the Hindenburg family has a pew, the pastor, Ernst Hübner, said:

"At the little church in Lingau, where President von Hindenburg himself always attended services will be conducted for the townfolk."

Tannenberg, where von Hindenburg turned back the Russian advance in the early days of the war, will be the scene of a memorial service over the body of the great hero tomorrow.

The body will be taken to Hohenstein, a small town close to the Tannenberg monument, the scene of state observance. Government officials, diplomats, and von Hindenburg's brothers, arms, as well as a large number of fellow citizens from all parts of Germany, are expected to attend.

The German president was an indefatigable worker, and his daily table at the presidential residence in the Wilhelmstrasse was adhered to with military punctuality. His favorite recreation was the chase. Every summer he spent a month hunting in the highland of Dietmarszell, Bavaria.

"A shining example of unselfish devotion to the public weal," was a phrase from an address by chancellor Müller later called the name of the German nation on the occasion of von Hindenburg's 80th birthday, October 2, 1927, which was celebrated throughout the Reich in a manner that left no doubt to the deep veneration in which the whole country held him. Probably no German ever received such an overwhelming tribute to his popularity as did President von Hindenburg on that occasion. Ten million marks were voluntarily subscribed by Germans to establish a "Hindenburg Fund" which the aged celebrant dedicated to the assistance of needy war veterans.

As he continued in the presidency, the very men who helped put von Hindenburg in that office dissociated themselves from him, while the great mass of the people as well as the republicans rallied to his own. That turn of events resulted because the nationalists, who promoted his candidacy had regarded von Hindenburg merely as a chair warmer for the monarchist.

The conflict between the president and his former political friends became an irreconcilable one in 1929, when the nationalists started the plebiscite demand in an attempt to oust Adolf Young from office. What particularly irritated the president was that the plebiscite proposal was aimed chiefly at the policies of the late foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann, who died only a few weeks before the vote on the plebiscite.

Von Hindenburg had supported the foreign minister's policies and had taken a great fancy to him. He had the nation know in no uncertain terms that he was against the plebiscite demand and showed his feeling for Stresemann by insisting upon walking behind the hearse at the foreign minister's funeral.

To test the Young plan the plebiscite bill needed a favorable vote of 21,000,000, the general apathy to the poll was indicated by the less than 6,000,000 votes cast for it.

President von Hindenburg was a strict constitutionalist and a decided upon that as his guiding principle in government, he took Emperor William I, founder of the German Reich, as his model. He went even to the extent of asking the late cabinet of "ministers." That was not meant to indicate that they were mere tools or that he attempted to dictate to them, but since they were his appointees he intended to exercise his prerogative as president. As president, he did not undertake a step without consulting the minister of the department involved.

Throughout the morning, stern-faced guards and soldiers stood in front of the mansion. The Neudeck population, anxious to have a last look at their patron, were not allowed to leave their work to approach the house.

Strong measures were taken to preserve peace. Black-shirted members of the schutz staffs, the special storm troops, secret police banned traffic from the street.

Five miles away, however, in Freystadt, things were more normal. The people gathered in small knots on the corners. Shop owners stood in their doors and asked for further news on the last hours of the field marshal.

Flags at half staff flew from every building. The streets also were draped with black rope.

Church bells tolled. In the Freystadt church where the Hindenburg family has a pew, the pastor, Ernst Hübner, said:

"At the little church in Lingau, where President von Hindenburg himself always attended services will be conducted for the townfolk."

Tannenberg, where von Hindenburg turned back the Russian advance in the early days of the war, will be the scene of a memorial service over the body of the great hero tomorrow.

The body will be taken to Hohenstein, a small town close to the Tannenberg monument, the scene of state observance. Government officials, diplomats, and von Hindenburg's brothers, arms, as well as a large number of fellow citizens from all parts of Germany, are expected to attend.

East Prussian Background. Thus it will be East Prussia, the province in which the Hindenburg family rose and where the field marshal played an important role in the war.

The body will be brought the thirty miles back to Neudeck Saturday afternoon and will be buried.

It was said that von Hindenburg did not wish to be buried in the Neudeck cemetery but, instead, had selected a solitary spot in the forest near his estate.

A wide lawn and there are no trees close by.

The German president was an indefatigable worker, and his daily table at the presidential residence in the Wilhelmstrasse was adhered to with military punctuality. His favorite recreation was the chase. Every summer he spent a month hunting in the highland of Dietmarszell, Bavaria.

"A shining example of unselfish devotion to the public weal," was a phrase from an address by chancellor Müller later called the name of the German nation on the occasion of von Hindenburg's 80th birthday, October 2, 1927, which was celebrated throughout the Reich in a manner that left no doubt to the deep veneration in which the whole country held him. Probably no German ever received such an overwhelming tribute to his popularity as did President von Hindenburg on that occasion. Ten million marks were voluntarily subscribed by Germans to establish a "Hindenburg Fund" which the aged celebrant dedicated to the assistance of needy war veterans.

As he continued in the presidency, the very men who helped put von Hindenburg in that office dissociated themselves from him, while the great mass of the people as well as the republicans rallied to his own. That turn of events resulted because the nationalists, who promoted his candidacy had regarded von Hindenburg merely as a chair warmer for the monarchist.

The conflict between the president and his former political friends became an irreconcilable one in 1929, when the nationalists started the plebiscite demand in an attempt to oust Adolf Young from office. What particularly irritated the president was that the plebiscite proposal was aimed chiefly at the policies of the late foreign minister, Gustav Stresemann, who died only a few weeks before the vote on the plebiscite.

Von Hindenburg had supported the foreign minister's policies and had taken a great fancy to him. He had the nation know in no uncertain terms that he was against the plebiscite demand and showed his feeling for Stresemann by insisting upon walking behind the hearse at the foreign minister's funeral.

To test the Young plan the plebiscite bill needed a favorable vote of 21,000,000, the general apathy to the poll was indicated by the less than 6,000,000 votes cast for it.

President von Hindenburg was a strict constitutionalist and a decided upon that as his guiding principle in government, he took Emperor William I, founder of the German Reich, as his model. He went even to the extent of asking the late cabinet of "ministers." That was not meant to indicate that they were mere tools or that he attempted to dictate to them, but since they were his appointees he intended to exercise his prerogative as president. As president, he did not undertake a step without consulting the minister of the department involved.

ery ones tips was "What will happen in Germany now?"

The news of the death of President von Hindenburg has just reached me. In his passing the world has lost an outstanding figure, whose character, integrity and loyal devotion to his country have commanded the respect and admiration of all peoples. I join with my fellow countrymen in expressing sincerest sympathy with the people of Germany in the loss of their beloved president."

Official Condolence Is Sent from France

PARIS, Aug. 2.—(AP)—France sent her condolences to Germany today for the death of President von Hindenburg, whose passing may mean much to this country.

President Albert LeBrun and Premier Gaston Doumergue telegraphed Chancellor Hitler expressions of sympathy.

Louis Barthou, foreign minister, sent a message to Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, Doumergue and Barthou sent aides to the German embassy here to deliver personal condolences on the death of the marshal who directed German troops in an advance into France during the world war.

The news was received by Barthou and LeBrun at Nancy, where they were attending the funeral service of one of France's military heroes, Marshal Lyautey, of Morocco.

"The situation regarded by officials as 'dangerous.' They expressed the hope Hitler would try to strengthen his position by taking some calmer elements into the cabinet, instead of pursuing his last campaign of 'ruthlessness.'"

Officials pointed to the June 30 "bloody purification" and the Austrian affair ending in the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss, claiming they were anxious that forecast dark days unless Hitler changes his ways.

"We face Hitler now instead of Germany," said one high official. "Von Hindenburg was the brake on the time factor and the touch of conservatism in Hitler's rule. Now Hitler's reign is supreme."

Austrians Grieved Despite Situation

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The imposing stature of Paul von Hindenburg as statesman and soldier was thrown into sharp relief here today by the fact that despite the bitterness of Austro-German relations all sections of the Austrian population saluted with reverence the death of the German president.

The press and officialdom joined in expressions of reverent regard for the German hero of the World War. Reverence colored the words of the official Austrian news agency which announced the death of President von Hindenburg with the following statement:

"Reichspräsident Field Marshal von Hindenburg at 89 this morning died at the estate of Neudeck. The foreign office of the Reich mourned as 'the passing of one of the greatest figures of the war and the post war years.'"

Adolf Hitler's assumption of the presidency already had been discounted by the Austrian people. It occasioned no surprise. Whether the acquisition of new powers by Hitler will improve or make Austro-German relations more difficult was a question met on all sides with a shrug of the shoulder.

Sincere Regret And Apprehension Felt

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Sincere grief and considerable apprehension over the political future of Germany were expressed in British government circles today after the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

Even during the World War years, when the so-called "Hindenburg myth" of the German coast, menaced England, all Britons held the German military leader in great respect.

Since then he has been regarded as the chief stabilizing force in the German republic and Hitlerite Germany.

The news that Chancellor Adolf Hitler had taken over the presidency as well as the chancellorship came as no surprise to officials here, where this development had been anticipated.

But an authoritative source said the government attitude here is that Hitler's problems are "just beginning as there is considerable doubt as to whether the Reichswehr (regular army) will be loyal to him as it was to von Hindenburg."

King George was aboard the royal yacht at Cowes when he heard the news of the passing of von Hindenburg. A message of sympathy from the king was sent to Colonel Oscar von Hindenburg, the president's son, instead of to Chancellor Hitler.

Official sources explained that this peculiar message had been no official notification here that Hitler had assumed the presidency.

Sir Ian Hamilton, one of the British commanders in the Dardanelles campaign in the World War, said: "I stood as a rock amidst all this trimming and political humbug. I do believe he stood sincerely for peace."

Peaceful End Is Reward for Noted German Fighter

NEUDECK, Germany, Aug. 2.—(AP)—President Paul von Hindenburg, after suffering for weeks, died peacefully and without pain.

As he entered his last sleep there was an expression of great contentment on his rugged face. Shortly before he had lifted his hands in prayer, and in death they remained folded.

On a table beside his bed was a book of favorite quotations, the last which was understood, read: "With one hand he held the sword, with the other he worked."

ready for the assault on the second line, the Droucqauant line. Again with the Canadians for a spearhead, the allied troops stormed the German trench system. Irova back the invaders. So thoroughly successful were they that on the night of September 2-3 the Germans fell back to their third formidable line, along the Canal du Nord.

Fighting turned southward and the Germans, after days of hard fighting, were driven back to the Hindenburg line all the way to St. Quentin.

Grand Attack. On September 27 all was ready for the grand attack. Under Marshal Foch, the German army was to be launched in the Hindenburg line. If this could be cut, transportation lines would be severed and the cause on the other fronts hampered.

Rafts, mats and even lifeboats were used to cross the canal in the face of terrific fire. English sappers, working in place behind the shock troops, and the night of September 29 the reserve line had fallen.

On October 3 the French took St. Quentin and by October 5 the British had consolidated their position.

Austria. (Continued from Page One) Fey (cabinet member and former vice chancellor) cordially welcomed me," said Hudi, "and handed me his visiting card."

VIENNA, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Another member of the Nazi party which brought death to Chancellor Dollfuss last week faced hanging before sundown today when he went to trial by courtmartial for his activity.

He was Paul Hudi, 41, former officer in the Austrian army, twice wounded and five times decorated for bravery in the World War.

Hudi freely admitted to the court that he had participated in the raid of the chancellery but pleaded not guilty of high treason.

Austria's Fascist government kept an attentive eye toward the Italian party which allowed no interruption of its campaign against Nazis.

Confirmation was lacking of reports Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Vice Chancellor Ernst von Starheimberg would visit Premier Mussolini, godfather of their rule, shortly.

(Despatches from Rome quoted an official as saying nothing was known of such a conference. Likewise there was no confirmation of reports from London that Mussolini had called a meeting of powers in Rome to discuss Austria's situation.)

Capacity was his most striking characteristic."

Tribute From MacDonald. PICTOU, N. S., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, here on a vacation, paid tribute today to the memory of President von Hindenburg.

"The president's life," he said, "has been known for some time to hang upon a thread, but I heard the news of his death this morning with profound regret."

"He was a great figure both in war and in peace. He has been a stabilizing influence in Germany, and his death must have a little effect on the present position of that country."

Ex-Kaiser Pays Tribute. DOORN, Switzerland, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm sent a telegram of sympathy today to Colonel Oscar von Hindenburg, referring to his father, the late President of Germany, as the "immortal" hero of the battle of Tannenberg.

The text of the former Kaiser's message:

"The Kaiserin and I mourn with moved hearts with you and the whole German people. A life richly blessed by the Lord has found its end. The crown prince will convey our last greetings and homage to the immortal hero of Tannenberg."

"Signed—WILHELM, R. I."

Rome Calm at News. ROME, Aug. 2.—(AP)—News that Chancellor Hitler had succeeded to the presidency of Germany was received calmly today by Italian officials.

GERMANY

le life as a soldier, imbued with a spirit of duty to folk of the Fatherland, is ended. Everyone has faith in Hitler, the leader of our people."

The cabinet decree, under which Hitler assumed power, says: "The Reich government has passed the following law, which is hereby promulgated: 'The office of the Reichspräsident is vacant. In consequence, therefore, powers heretofore exercised by the Reichspräsident are transferred to Dr. Fuhrer (Hitler) and the vice-chancellor (Franz von Papen). He (Hitler) determines who shall be his deputy."

Absolute power rests with Hitler, through the combination of the Reich Chancellor. In consequence, therefore, powers heretofore exercised by the Reichspräsident are transferred to Dr. Fuhrer (Hitler) and the vice-chancellor (Franz von Papen). He (Hitler) determines who shall be his deputy."

Previously he had to go through the formality of submitting plans to von Hindenburg for approval. The Reichstag long ago turned over all its power to Hitler and the cabinet.

Goebbels in his radio address lauded von Hindenburg as "a great leader of Germany in war and in peace, whose life because of his uprightness will always be remembered by the Fatherland."

Activities Paralyzed. Crowds gathered throughout the nation to discuss the national tragedy. Activities in Berlin were almost paralyzed.

Many conservatives were fearful that Hitler would lead Germany into a check upon extreme nationalism.

Hitler by the cabinet decree retained the office for which von Hindenburg defeated him in the general election of 1932.

The two once were opponents but the rising power of the national socialist party forced the venerable president to call Hitler to aid in the crisis.

All troops will wear mourning for 14 days, except the regiment with which von Hindenburg is associated. It will observe the death for four weeks.

Sorrow Unparalleled. Germany, which shouted the name "von Hindenburg" during the time of the world war, in it in the political strife of today and echoed that name with a national sorrow almost without parallel.

The whisper "Hindenburg is dead" spread swiftly through the streets which just 20 years ago flamed with the excitement of imminent war.

The public learned that the president had surrendered at last in his final battle first by a soldier radio broadcast and later through black-bordered extra newspapers.

In Berlin, where summer sunshine gilded the streets and parks, the flags on all public buildings were at half staff as thousands of citizens on their way to work learned of the president's death.

News leveled social distinctions. Newspaper extras were shared in the middle of the streets as the shock troops and the men with flour, who stood shoulder to shoulder with well-groomed businessmen.

Record Newspaper Sales. Those newspaper sales were a stern picture of the reichspräsident—in which he sat with his chin crooked in a strong fingers—stated that Hindenburg was dead, but that he had not been buried.

The entire career of the old soldier was then paraded in print with editorials and historical anecdotes. In Berlin's downtown districts the news of such a crisis came in by the help of trustees, as there are many trustees in and out of the penitentiary daily.

"x x x They could have come in by editors and been passed on to some one, or dropped on the yard by arrangement. The men are searched but the women are not x x x."

NORWOOD NAMED ON COMMITTEE FOR MEN'S DINNER AT COLUMBIA

MEN'S STEAK DINNER IS ANNUAL EVENT IMPORTANCE AT SUMMER SCHOOL

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(Spl.)—W. H. Norwood, superintendent of schools, Cortland, Texas, who is at present taking summer session courses in New York City, has been chosen by his classmates to serve on the committee in charge of the Men's Steak Dinner, which will be held at Teachers College, Columbia University, on Saturday, August 4.

The Men's Steak Dinner, an annual event at Teachers College, is considered the most important extra-curricular activity on the campus, and is the high spot in the social life of the summer students. Inaugurated over 20 years ago, it has become a nationally recognized institution, universities from all parts of the country conducting similar affairs of their own.

In Form of Field Day.
The Steak Dinner is conducted in the form of a field day and school. Professors and students are out, and is held on the spacious grounds of the Horace Mann hotel at the foot of the city, and mingle with each other on the tennis fields, horseback riding, and golf links. What little academic air is brought to the picnic grounds soon evaporates in a spirit of comradeship and good fun.

Following an afternoon of athletic sports, the men line up for their "eats." Sixteen ounces of bone steaks are used, garnished with red tomatoes, dill pickles, potato salad, and raw onions. One of the rules of the game, which is rigidly observed, prohibits any culinary equipment, such as knives, forks or spoons. The total amount of household appliances for the affair consists in one paper plate and in one paper tea cream spoon. However, another rule for Men's Steak Dinner calls for the suspension, in toto, of Emily Post and her sayings.

Most of the summer session students attending this dinner are school superintendents, executives, principals, college deans and presidents, guidance counselors, teachers, and educational workers. Last year nearly 1,000 men attended this dinner, representing every one of the 48 states, and many foreign lands. According to advance indications, there will be more than 1,200 summer session students at the Field Day outing this summer.

Intellectual Hour.
In addition to the fun and food, the men are treated to an intellectual hour in the form of intimate talks by some of America's foremost educators. Taking as the theme, "The Challenge to Teachers Organizations," the students will hear Dean William F. Russell, Dr. George S. Counts and Dr. Goodwin Watson of Teachers College, Dr. Edison E. Oberholzer, superintendent of schools, Houston, Texas, and president of the department of superintendence, and William Hugo Lemel.

Just to add to the community spirit of the occasion, Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, well known educator at Teachers College, will lead the group in singing. Dr. Fretwell announced that he has several numbers up his sleeve which will

STEEL FOR DOME OF HUGE OBSERVATORY TEXAS U. ARRIVES

AUSTIN, Aug. 2.—(Spl.)—Information has reached here that the first of 12 to 15 cars of structural steel for the dome of the W. J. McDonald Observatory of the University of Texas, to be erected on the summit of Mt. Locke, near Fort Davis, has arrived at Marfa and has been transported by truck to the site of the observatory. The other cars will arrive at intervals as the work of assembling the steel progresses.

Alfred Craig, superintendent of construction, and his assistant, Harvey E. Shonk, are on the ground, having arrived from Cleveland, where the steel was fabricated. They were accompanied by Tom Paterson, son of C. J. Paterson, president of the company which fabricated the steel. About four months will be required in erecting the dome and the supporting structure, it was stated. The dome itself has been put together at Cleveland and will reach the site with every part in place.

During the progress of this work the construction of a caretaker's residence and homes of other employees adjacent to the observatory will also be under way under the direction of Hugh C. Yantis of Austin, superintendent of construction of University buildings.

fill the evening dusk with pleasing harmony.

According to Dr. Willard S. Elmhurst, professor of Education at Teachers College, being appointed a member of the Men's Steak Dinner committee, is one of the highest honors that the students can bestow upon their classmates during the entire summer session.

Alleged Peeper Is In Hospital With Wounds in Shoulder

Police reported Thursday that Frank Allen, negro, was in the P. and S. Hospital with knife wounds in the shoulder, and seven negroes were arrested in connection with the affray.

City officers reported that those arrested claimed to have found the injured negro peeping into a house on South Twelfth street when they returned from church Wednesday night, and gave chase with the wound being inflicted with a pocketknife at the end of the hunt.

The negroes were released to Deputy Constable Jake Nutt for transferring to county authorities.

Sick and Convalescent.
Mrs. Guy Hardin, who underwent a serious operation last Thursday night at the P. and S. Hospital was resting nicely this afternoon.

Mrs. Ollie Spinks, recent surgical case at the P. and S. Hospital, was doing fine Thursday, attendants reported.

A medical patient at the P. and S. Hospital for the past few days, was about the same today.

Miss Estelle Lawhon, who underwent an operation earlier in the week at the P. and S. Hospital, was resting very well today.

Miss Claudine Everett, was resting fine Thursday afternoon at the P. and S. Hospital, following an operation there Tuesday.

Mrs. H. C. Clements was able to be taken home Wednesday afternoon from the P. and S. Hospital, where she underwent an operation earlier in the week.

Mrs. C. M. Fitzgerald of Powell, was doing fine Thursday afternoon at the P. and S. Hospital, where she underwent an operation Tuesday.

Garland Kent, Jr., who had the big toe of his right foot amputated recently at the P. and S. Hospital, and was doing nicely Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Clyde Morgan, of Malakoff is seriously ill at the P. and S. Hospital.

DR. FRANK NORRIS WILL PREACH HERE ON NEXT THURSDAY

The announcement was made last night in the open air revival held at the Second Baptist (Eleventh Avenue) church that Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Port Worth, would speak there on August 9th, at 10 o'clock in the morning and again that night at 8 o'clock. The church is planning an all-day service with dinner on the ground. Other speakers will be on hand to address the congregation that day.

The pastor of the Second Baptist Church will give a brief history of his pastorate here, and will discuss some issues confronting the church.

The pastor expressed the belief that this will be one of the high days in the history of the church and all the surrounding country. Churches throughout the Navarro, Ellis, Hill, Henderson and Freestone counties will be on hand to hear Dr. Norris, Dr.

NO CROWDS, ANYHOW

A Washington correspondent wonders just how much rest the President can get when he is in constant communication by wireless with affairs in the United States. It is said that important messages can be sent to him and his reply received within an hour and a half if they are in code or within 40 minutes
if they are not.

Obviously the President cannot get so complete a rest as the private citizen who actually receives no mail during vacation time and is entirely away from all business associates. Yet the President ought to be getting more rest than he could on almost any other sort of vacation. There can be no callers when he is on the Pacific Ocean. There can be no photographers until he reaches port. The President's job is one which puts him in contact with hundreds most of the year.
The few who accompany him are the only ones now that can get at him between stops, and they probably stay away if the President wants a nap or a sun-bath or a period of solitary meditation on the deck.

UNOFFICIAL POLICE WORK

In almost every phase, American sentiment has upheld the action of the local,
state and federal authorities, and of the San Francisco public, in the handling of the general strike. In one respect, though, criticism appears. It is aroused by some of the acts of the "vigilantes," most of whose services were admirable.

There is very little sympathy anywhere in the United States for "Reds."
The almost unanimous verdict of American citizens is that the person so denominated, if not positively dangerous, at least nuisances. At the same time, Americans with old-fashioned notions of civic rights
and constitutional guarantees are dubious about the propriety, and the advantage in the long run, of unofficial groups of private citizens breaking into the homes or meeting places of suspected Reds, and beating them and turning them
over to the police.

Much may be overlooked
in the heat of grave danger.
Just the same, it is well to remember that lawless action by representatives of the law and by well-meaning civilians for righteous purposes, is likely to make social enemies all the more determined to break the law for criminal purposes.
We have seen in Germany
what happens if irresponsible groups become law-enforcers and make their own law.

"We should pay as we go," says a highly moral economist. Yes, we should.
Shouldn't we? Now let's start out tomorrow morning, government and state and city and business and family and all, and pay cash for everything.

They're doing Mae West's picture over, but it is not the curves that will be eliminated and Mae will be teaching a Sunday school.

JUST FOLKS

Copyright, 1932, Ed. A. Guest.

IN SPITE OF SHORTCOMINGS.
In spite of all my blunders
and the silly things I do,
And in spite of all the folly I display:
Though I never put a thing away when using it I'm through,
And I cause her needless trouble every day:
Though I'm heedless and my careless, and where my pa-
mans fall,
For her to come and find them
there they lie,
My Nellie never grumbles, but stays patient through it all,
And sometimes myself I stop
and wonder why, Notwithstanding that she's struggled now for eight and twenty years.
To teach me how a husband
should behave,
And despite her lovely labors, still no betterment appears.
I still leave the washstand
messy when I shave,
I still leave discarded linen on
the chairs and on the floor,
And I never hang my coat up
as I should:
But she's promised to look after me for twenty-eight years or more,
And would do it for a hundred
is she could.
I'm the sort of fellow women
couldn't want about the place,
For I cannot put a board up for a shelf:
And when anything needs fixing,
I am useless on the case,
Patient Nellie has to do the job herself.
I'd have thought she would have chucked me in the discard
years ago,
But contented with her lot she seems to be:
For not withstanding all the irritating faults I show,
She seems satisfied to get along with me.

CONTESTS IN PROM-INENCE

This being the silly season, perhaps it is all right to start making up lists of the most prominent men and women—or in the current term, the "most out-standing." This process is now in operation in various cities, and it stirs up just as much interest, argument,
pride, disappointment, sore-ness and general social disturbance as might be expected.

People of course will never agree about such matters. Even if there were established standards of civic eminence, or community leadership, no verdict would stand long. Communities change their appraisal of human merit continually.
The hero of today may be disregarded six months from now. Leaders come and go. Tastes and requirements change.

Still, this entertaining practice is probably as valuable as beauty contests,
tennis championships, swimming prowess or excellence in bridge or golf.

AMERICAN COMMUNISM

The hardest thing to understand about Communists, especially in America, is their personal behavior.
It seems to be a point of principle with them to make themselves as disagreeable as possible to everybody. They invariably act with studied rudeness
and ugliness in public places. They jeer and boo speakers. They jostle bystanders. They invade public meetings where well-behaved citizens are doing the best they can to alleviate local suffering, and try to break up the meetings.
They force their way into the headquarters of charitable organizations, abuse
those running them, interfere with orderly distribution of food and clothing, and commit acts of violence entirely unprovoked.

A dispassionate observer would suppose that any group of people wanting to put over a new social gospel would do it by appealing to people's reason, and by trying to make a good personal impression on them. The Communists do neither. They antagonize nearly everybody. Their only converts, as a rule, are gained among helpless sufferers, to whom they promise more than they can perform, and many of whom eventually turn away from them in disillusionment.
These are facts vouched for by social workers who have watched their operations
for years.

It may be just as well, though. Much trouble as these Communists make,
with their habitual procedure, they might make far more if they behaved themselves and set about to please and persuade instead of antagonizing the public.

The horse era had its defects, but we don't seem to recall any hit-skip buggy drivers.

SOME GOOD, SOME BAD!

—By Clive Weed

CHARACTER FIRST

An interesting and hopeful evidence of tolerance and co-operation among formerly antagonistic groups
in this country is the new magazine, "Character," to be launched this fall. It is a bi-monthly, sponsored by the Religious Education Association of Chicago, an organization of Catholic, Jewish and Protestant leaders interested in the religious content of education.

It is stated that the periodical has been planned in direct response to a demand from parents, educators, social workers and religious leaders in those three great groups who have come to believe that all their individual efforts are really directed toward the same end—the development of character. Character, they realize, is based upon the same sound principles and training in all three of the religions included in the plan, regardless of separate theological beliefs.

Great good should follow
from such an effort. Working together for this particular purpose should encourage the leaders and should teach their young people to work together for other ends—such as good government, civic welfare, public education, international good-will.

"MAIL EARLY AND OFTEN"

Announcement of a postoffice slogan, "Mail early and often," causes a startled glance at the calendar.
No, it isn't Christmas-shopping time. The slogan is addressed to business men and refers to daily mailing of business correspondence.
Says Postmaster W. R.
Jackson of St. Louis:

"Do not wait until you close your office at night
to have your stenographer or office boy gather up all the mail that has accumulated during the working day. I urge you to institute an extra deposit or two during the day. A few hours earlier mailing on your part, in many cases, will enable the postoffice to deliver your letters at distances eight to 24 hours earlier."

In St. Louis, as in most other cities, there is a daily rush of mailing. Three-fourths of all the mail posted during any business day goes out in the six-hour period between 5 and 11 p.
m. It gets handled as promptly and efficiently as possible, but obviously it would be better to distribute the volume more evenly, through the day.

SHAKESPEARE AT CHICAGO

The reformation of the Chicago fair, which was cheap and vulgar in many ways last summer, seems to have gone pretty far. Not only are the Midway indecencies eliminated or substituted, but they are replaced
by various novelties of positive merit. One of the most surprising is a replica of the original Globe Theatre of Shakespeare's time. It is surprising to find such an institution at a fair, and still more surprising to see how the visiting public takes it.

Only Shakespearean plays,
given by a repertoire company, are presented at that theatre. Many of the plays, not ordinarily regarded as commercial successes, are having their first presentation in America. The house is said to be selling out for every performance, and Shakespeare's doing regularly a greater business than the sideshows.

Here is verification of the view expressed by some critical visitors last year, that Chicago had underrated the intelligence and taste of the national public. Here is a hint, too, for professional theatrical men throughout the country. There may soon be other Shakespearean theatres opening up again.

WARM WEATHER COM-FORTS.

Commenting on a recent spell of extra warm weather,
the Toledo Chronicle remarks:

"Do you remember when folks lived without screens on the windows, and without ice or an electric refrigerator? Possibly you can even recall the days
when you did not have an electric fan."

Material progress in alleviating the discomforts of weather extremes was made even before the development of air-conditioning now coming to the fore.
There's been progress in dressing for warm weather,
too. The debutantes may not recall, but their mothers will, the warm summers in which a woman wouldn't think of going out of her home without coat, gloves,
hat and veil, no matter
what the thermometer registered.

In rejoicing over present first-aids to summer comfort, it is well to remember that there are still too many Americans who live without screens and ice and electric fans, who have no shade to sit in and no lawns to lie on except in public parks. Doubtless they'd be glad to cause a

BOOKS FOR READING

An unusual prize for reading is to be offered at the University of California. A gift of $1,000 has been made to the university for an annual prize to be awarded to the senior student who has built up the best personal library during undergraduate days.

The rules of the competition are interesting. Not more than $10 a year is to be spent on this library. The books are to be non-technical, and the student must give evidence of having read them for pleasure.

Forty dollars is not a large sum for building up a prize-winning library. A good deal can be done, however, by a true book-lover,
for there is nothing in the rules to prevent browsing
through second-hand book stores for literary treasures.

"The best personal library" does not mean finest bindings or most highbrow authors or titles. It means,
one supposes, the library which presents the most authentic impression of having been acquired through individual taste and preference and having been thoroughly enjoyed. Here is a competition in which the prize will go not for first editions and autographs, but for the amount of satisfaction the books have given their owner.

Will Rogers has started on a world tour. We hope as he goes along he'll tell the rest of the world what's wrong with it. Still, it probably won't do them any more good than it has done us.

North Dakota might adopt the old Roman system, with two governors or
"consuls," elected together
and governing alternately
six months at a time.

General Johnson proposes to get even with bally business by making it regulate itself. Is there any limit to the meanness of that man?

Two words we should think everybody could get along without are "recalcitrant" and "intransigent."
Now you add a couple.

Everybody enjoys the jokes about quadruplets and quintuplets except the parents thereof.

Things are certainly upside down when rainy weather is preferred to fair weather.

DEATH IS SENTENCE
TWO NAZIS ACCUSED OF DOLFUSS DEATHFIRST DECREE NEW AUS-TRIAN GOVERNMENT SEVERE BLOW TO NAZIS

VIENNA, July 31.—(P)— Two Nazis accused of high treason in the killing of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss were hanged this afternoon. They had been convicted by a court martial.

The two men—Otto Planetta,
former soldier and Franz Holzweber, were hanged after a plea of their counsel for clemency was rejected.
Planetta was accused of firing
the fatal shots and Holzweber of leading the Nazi putsch into the federal chancellery last Wednesday.

VIENNA, July 31.—(P)—Two nazis accused of complicity in the assassination of Chancellor Dol-fuss were found guilty by a court martial today of high treason and sentenced to hang.
The two were Otto Planetta, a former army sergeant, and Franz Holzweber, a school teacher.
Planetta said in the course of

DIES FOR GERMANY
VIENNA, July 31.—(P)—An official account of the execution of Franz Holzweber today said that as he stood on the gallows before he was hanged he shouted:
"I die for Germany! Heil Hitler!" Otto Planetta, the other accused, shouted: "Heil Hitler!"

the trial that he fired the fatal shot, adding:
"I did not mean to kill the chancellor. I am sorry."

Holzweber was charged with leading the Nazi putsch in which the chancellor was slain.

Oddly enough, the death sentences were the first made by an Austrian court against nazis despite the fact that Dollfuss described death months ago against persons found guilty of seditious activities. Several socialists were executed under these decrees but the death sentence was never passed against a Nazi while Dol-fuss was alive.
Planetta was actually condemned to death for two reasons: High treason and the murder of Dol-fuss as well.

By the constitutional order, Holzweber was designated to be executed first.
Barring a pardon by President Wilhelm Miklas, the men faced execution within three hours from the time of the passing of the verdict, or by about 4:40 p. m. (10:40
a. m. E. S. T.).

The defense counsel, in its closing plea stressed Dollfuss' dying words: "I have no more to say."
Emil Frey who quoted his chief as saying:

"Last Will of Dollfuss,
"Avoid further bloodshed. Ringle must make peace."

Raising his voice, the defense
counsel cried:

"That was Chancellor Dollfuss' real last will and testament!"
The attorney told the court that armed resistance was unfortunately usually bringing death sentences,
"but those who participate in them
cannot be called bandits and common murderers as these defendants have been called. It is customary to call such persons rebels."

Meanwhile, new bombing outrages harassed Austria's Fascist government. Their revolt all but quell the ceremony and the government with bombs in a renewed campaign of terror. Explosions were reported in the provinces and in Vienna.

The first decree of the new government headed by Dr. Kurt Schuschnigg aims a heavy blow at nazis.
It orders them placed in concentration camps at hard labor, their property to be confiscated. The measure is more drastic than any used by Dollfuss in crushing socialists last winter and spring.

Mopping Up Revolution.
A government communique says
it is mopping up a revolt in the provinces, including Carinthia,
where nazis established a stronghold. Many are said to be fleeing into Yugoslavia. Italy's army is encamped nearby on the border.

The government sought to strengthen its forces by naming Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, present vice-chancellor and leader of the Fascist home guard, leader of the Fatherland front, in succession to Dollfuss.

Stefan Tauschitz, who was recalled as minister to Germany by Dollfuss only three weeks ago to become undersecretary for foreign affairs, has been instructed to return to Berlin as minister. This is regarded as a peace gesture toward Germany.

"Dollfuss' action, along with rumors that a charge d'affaires
would be left in control in Berlin, had excited Germany. There were reports she would retaliate by recalling her minister. This was jeered done, but because he acted as mediator for nazis.

Not Playing Lone Hand.
ROME, July 31.—(P)—A government spokesman said today that Italy was not perturbed by a statement from Belgrade that it Italy intervened in Austria, Yugoslavia would do the same.

The spokesman said that it had not been Italy's idea that she would play a lone hand in the Austrian situation and that she would, in fact, prefer united action. He said that her only interest is to protect the independence of Austria and that if other nations join in helping her toward this end, so much the better.

The same spokesman said a report that Premier Mussolini had telephoned Chancellor Hitler, warning him to cease Nazi activity in Austria, was not true.

COTTON CONSIGNED TO PRODUCERS POOL
NOT TO BE DUMPED

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(P)—
The farmer and the trade were assured today by the farm administration that cotton consigned to the producers' pool and eligible for sale beginning today upon approval of Secretary Wallace, would not be "dumped" or permitted
"unduly to disturb the market."
Some 1,950,000 bales were consigned with the understanding it could not be sold prior to today at less than 15 cents. None ever has been sold, since the price never reached that figure.

The deadline was passed today,
however, and it now may be mar-
ketted without the 15 cent limitation, at the discretion of Oscar Johnston, pool manager, and with Secretary Wallace's permission.
"It would be unwise," said a statement authorized by Johnston,
"for the pool manager to adopt a hard and fast or arbitrary rule referring to the sale of this cotton but I can and do say to the public that the cotton will be marketed in an orderly fashion in accordance with sound business judgment and with a view to avoiding competition with normal trade channels."
"We do not intend to dump or force this cotton on a weak or unwilling market, but we shall have the fixed purpose to liquidate the pool account as early as practical and consistent with good business principles. When and if any of this cotton is offered for sale, the public will be advised and the trade given an opportunity to purchase."

Arkansas Governor
Weds Texas Couple

ARKADELPHIA, Ark., Aug. 1.— (P)—Gov. J. M. Rutledge allied his wedding rites for a college football star and his bride.

Several ministers of the city are on the occasion and the remarkable groom succeeded in resourcing the governor just a few minutes before he was scheduled to deliver a campaign address.
The governor consented to conduct the ceremony and the groom, LeRoy Robinson, young Texas, returned triumphantly within a few minutes with his bride-to-be, Miss Elizabeth Jones.

The chief executive wished them
happiness following the brief ceremony.
They are residents of Clarksville, Texas. Robinson is a former student of Ouachita College and now is a halfback at the University of Oklahoma. Norman, his bride was a student at S. M. U.

Says Allred Leads In Navarro County

The following letter from Dr.
J. C. Blair, Kerens, which is self-explanatory has been received by the Daily Sun:

Kerens, July 31, 1934.
Corsicana Daily Sun, Corsicana,
Texas.

In your yesterday's tabulated vote for governor you gave James V. Allred 2450 votes and Tom Hunter 2464 for the Navarro county vote and headed a column announcing "Hunter led for governor," when in fact, Allred led by six votes.

In your tabulation you report that Kerens gave Allred 355
votes, when in fact the Kerens vote was Allred 375.

Very Respectfully,
J. C. BLAIR.

consulted relative to any steps taken.

It was stated that the Yugo-slav government resents the idea of Italy playing a lone hand in guaranteeing Austria's independence and that Yugoslavia's attitude with reference to Austria is that Italy can not act alone.

Thousands of Women
Benefited By Cardui

The benefits many women obtain from Cardui give them great confidence in it. "I have four children," writes Mrs. J. L. Norred, of Lagrange, Ga. "Before the birth of my children, I was weak, nervous and tired. I had a lot of trouble with my back. I took Car-dual each time and found it so helpful. Cardui did more to allay the nauseas at these times than anything I have ever used. I am in very good health and believe Cardui did a lot of good. Thousands of women testify to Cardui's benefits. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician."

These elements of beauty and dignity
which should mark every funeral service,
are very evident when we are called.

It is our thought that every detail should be anticipated, and that our efforts should still remain utterly and completely in the background.

HELPERS OF HUMANITY ARE TRUE PROPHETS OF THE LORD

Story of Elisha, Successor to Elijah, Who excelled in Deeds of Simple Helpfulness—The Final Test of Real Religion.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Somewhere should get the ear of the highbrows who are nowadays writing magazine articles about the decadence of the church, and whisper to them, "You are mere book-learned Bilkensens, and simply not posted concerning real life. Take your noses out of the works of your fellow highbrows, and look squarely at the facts of life. Then you will find that not only is the membership of all the churches increasing, but also the character of the work of religion is abundant on every hand. More people than two before are concerned to live the life of faith and do its works."

As for the preachers whom you criticize, you will find, if you look that most of the more than one hundred thousand of them in the United States and Canada are busy about helpful tasks of religion. It may be regrettable that they are too busy to read your scolding opinions; but they have the sick to visit, the dying to fort, the dead to bury, the lovers to marry, the children to organize and train, the youth to inspire and the poor to help. Only the angels can do more than they are doing.

When you broaden your inquiry to dear highbrows, you will find that the Christian Sunday school teachers' giving devoted, sacrificial, effective service weekly, for no other reward than the love of God. You will find Christians praying and working and living for the religious nurture of their children. Also you will find the agencies of welfare and relief overwhelmingly manned by men and women animated by the Christian motive. Every social worker knows that the great bulk of support for public charity comes from Christian people. I hate to say it, but my highbrow friends are ignorant of the preponderating body of evidence; and by so much are poor scholars.

One Helpful Prophet. Probably it will do little good to counsel the critics so let us turn to the prophet of helpfulness, Elisha, who is the subject of today's lesson; and consider him is the type of servant of God who has turned himself in useful work. Of course, we are more familiar with bold and temperamental Elijah, with his thunderings against idolatry and his defiance of the backslidden King Ahab. Undoubtedly there is an essential place for the Elijahs and their brave denunciations of wrong. But the preacher who devotes his sermons to addressing evil is likely to become a publicity-hungry nuisance. His friends are few, and his life is to be fed. Most ministers, thank God, are of the Elisha type. Whatever the state of the world, there are always human hearts to be helped. Such ministers seldom "make" the front pages, but they are fully reported in the books of the recording angel.

Aside from one or two human philanthropists in the case of Elisha, his ministry was one of service usefulness. He had a passion for helping people. He is the type best represented by Jesus, who "came, not to be ministered unto but to minister." In fairness it is to be remembered that even the trumpet-tongued prophets of a new social order give most of their time to a humdrum round of individual visits to persons in need. They earn the title of "minister." And they are the savor of salt in the life of the nation.

One Widow's Plight. It is natural for most persons to turn first to the clergy when in distress. It was an age-old usage which his widow of one of Israel's unknown prophets followed when she carried her woe to Elisha, the successor of Elijah. Her plight was pitiable. With the breadwinner gone, and two sons to support and in debt to a money lender who threatened her with slavery for her children, she besought Elisha's aid.

His response was characteristic of the good minister: "What shall I do for thee? That is the spirit in which religion has met the human needs of the flock looking for every other man who lives with open eyes. I could tell many tales of Christian workers who have seriously sacrificed themselves and their own resources in order to help individuals and God's cause. Elisha first ascertained the facts, like a modern trained social worker. He looked into the woman's possible resources. Alas! these consisted only of a single pot of oil. Thereupon Elisha wrought a wonder like unto the multiplication of the loaves and fishes by Jesus, and like the miracle wrought by Elijah for the widow of Zarephath. He bade the woman borrow from her neighbors all the empty vessels available. "She should do it on," Elisha said, "for she was about to do business with a bountiful Lord."

Great Expectations. The wife who asks portridge of the Lord should carry a large bowl, said John Bunyan. This widow gathered many empty vessels, to the wonderment of the lenders. She did not know that the bounty was to be received was measured by her own faith in expectation. God is more willing to give good gifts to His children than they are ready to prepare to receive them.

When her small store of oil, the widow was bidden to pour into the larger vessels. How her hand must have trembled and her eyes opened wide in amazement as the little pot gave forth far more than its own contents. Was there a limit to this wonder? Yes; the limit of her ability to receive. She might have had more had she made preparation for more. The flow of oil stayed not until the last available vessel was full.

Even so, it was enough, said Elisha, "Go, sell the oil and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy sons of the rest."

The Orthodox of Good Works. "Helping lame dogs over stiles" may seem small service; and feeding one distressed widow's family may appear like petty business for a great prophet; but there is greater evidence of the presence of God in the heart that this. No matter how intensely doctrinal a man's belief and preaching may be, if he is not a helper of his kind he is not orthodox. Jesus made social service the great test of acceptance at the Judgment Day. And He identified Himself with every recipient of a good deed.

Seven Sentences Sermons. Habits are at first cobwebs, at last cables—Irish Proverb. Happiness is the feeling we experience when we are too busy to be miserable.—Anon.

Here is the truth in a little creed. Enough for all the roads we go; In love is all the law we need, In Christ is all the God we know.—Edwin Markham

It is equally criminal in the governor and the governed to violate the laws.—Chinese Proverb.

Whoever doth not bear his cross, and come after Me, cannot be My disciple.—Luke 14:27.

Happy hearts and happy faces. Happy play in grassy places. This is how, in ancient ages, Children grew to kings and sages.—Stevenson.

Subtract hard work from life and in a few months it will have gone to pieces; labor next to the grace of God in the heart is the greatest promoter of morality, the greatest power for civilization.—Samuel C. Armstrong.

NAVARRO COUNTY NATIONAL GUARD UNITS GOING CAMP

Navarro county units of the Texas National Guard, now a part of the National Guard of the United States of America, will leave for the annual encampment at Palacios this week-end. Part of the contingents will go on trains and the others will make the trek in government trucks. Additional trucks have been procured for the local outfits, but have not been "broken in" sufficiently for the hard drive to camp this season.

Twenty members of Battery D, 132nd Field Artillery, under the command of Lt. Randolph Robinson, and twenty-six men, including Lt. Bruner Sutton of Headquarters Battery, will leave on a train Saturday morning at 12:01 o'clock. They are scheduled to arrive in Palacios at 11:30 o'clock. The remaining members of the two batteries under Capt. Festus A. Pierce and Capt. John J. Garner of Headquarters and D, respectively, will leave in trucks Saturday morning. Battery D will leave at 4:45 o'clock Saturday morning and Headquarters Battery will leave at 5 o'clock, and are scheduled to arrive at camp at 4:30 and 6:05 o'clock Saturday afternoon, respectively.

Under the new situation, the batteries work out their own schedules, re-fueling program, etc. instead of having higher officers to send orders and schedules to the commanding officers.

Ross Dickey, state highway patrolman stationed here, will escort the two local contingents over the highway to Palacios. State Highway Patrolman Sipkay will escort Battery E, Kerens contingent.

The Kerens battery will be commanded by Captain Hal Johnson and will leave Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, camping at Huntsville Friday night and continuing the trek Saturday morning. It was announced here Tuesday.

His skull was fractured Monday when he was thrown from a horse. His grief-stricken mother, Mrs. Jonesboro, Ark., for interment.

Wednesday, Aug. 8, Final Application Cotton Tax Date

Final date for the making of applications for allotments and tax-exemption certificates in Navarro county has been set by the state allotment board as Wednesday, August 8, according to information received by County Agent C. C. Morris and Adjustment Assistant Roy M. Zellner at a conference in Navarro county Tuesday.

All producers in Navarro county are urged to notice the deadline and make their arrangements accordingly.

Arbor Burned And Preacher Warned Stop Services

County officers Tuesday afternoon inaugurated an investigation relative to the burning of an arbor in the Rural Shade community in southeastern Navarro county Monday night and the leaving of a warning to Rev. Leonard Hunter who is conducting a revival meeting in that community.

The warning was printed on a card board and was tied to the fence near where the arbor was burned, and threatened the minister's life if he did not desist from holding further services there.

The warning was signed "The Knight Hawks."

The note read: "Preacher Leonard Hunter. If your life means anything to you, you will not preach any more in this community."

In one corner of the board, an eye was drawn with the notation under it as follows: "We are watching you."

Rufus Pevehouse, sheriff, and Cleo G. Miller, criminal district attorney, stated Tuesday afternoon they were working on clues as to the identity of those responsible. No arrests have been made.

Discuss Use Pure Bred Cattle Build Up Herd in Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Officials of the drought relief administration said today they were considering a plan for using pure bred cattle purchased in drought areas as a foundation stock for building up beef and dairy herds in the future.

Dr. E. W. Sheets, director of the drought relief service, pointed out that the secondary purpose of the work under way is to cull less desirable animals and improve the general quality of cattle herds of the country.

Further improvements can be made, he said, through use of pure bred animals as breeding stock instead of slaughtering them for beef. Details of this phase of the program were being discussed today at a conference which has continued since Monday.

MARKETING OF NEW COTTON YEAR TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—(P)—Despite declining exports and a drop in world consumption as compared with the year before, the 1933-34 cotton season, ending September 1, has a net cover of cotton considerably under that of 1932-33, according to the annual report of Secretary Emmert H. Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

With the opening of the new marketing season, Hester said, there was a carryover, including lint, of 10,921,000 bales, comparing with a carryover of 11,788,000 bales on the same date last year and of 13,449,000 bales on August 1, 1932.

Exclusive of lint, the 1933-34 carryover was 10,908,000 bales; the 1932-33 carryover, 11,230,000 bales, and the 1931-32 carryover 12,911,000 bales.

Hester reported the commercial crop of the season just closed at 1,368,000 bales, comparing with 1,083,000 the year before and 14,800,000 two years ago. Including exports of Canada, amounted to 7,800,000 bales in 1933-34; 8,816,000 in 1932-33 and 8,831,000 in 1931-32.

World consumption last season, including lint, declined to 14,

LONG SPRINGS NEW STRATEGIC MOVE IN NEW ORLEANS ROW

STATE APPOINTED TAX ASSESSORS NAMED TO TAKE PLACES ELECTED MEN

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—(P)—Carrying out Senator Huey P. Long's threat to take over the tax authority in the city of New Orleans, the state today appointed tax assessors throughout the city to supersede the assessors elected by the city last year.

Backed up by the power of the mobilized National Guard, which already has seized the city voting registration office, William Rankin of the Louisiana tax commission announced the appointment of the state tax collectors to take charge in New Orleans, replacing the elected city board of assessors.

Senator Long recently announced this would be done as a result of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley's refusal to recognize the legality of Gov. O. K. Allen's appointment of assessors to fill vacancies caused by the deaths of two elected assessors.

Rankin announced that a "state assessment" of the city would be made, except the fourth and sixth districts, in which districts State Representative Joseph Weber and Long ward leader Henry Cline were appointed by Governor Allen last week.

"This is new infamy and outrage," exclaimed Mayor Walmsley on being advised of the state assessment. "The latest illegal act of Senator Long through his tax commission."

"The anger of this madman knows no bounds," Rankin indicated that the state would at once discontinue the salaries of the elected city assessors. He said the elected assessors would be disregarded by the state agents in the making of city assessments.

It appears that each day Long is adding some new infamy and outrage to his long list of acts of oppression and usurpation in the city of New Orleans. Mayor Walmsley said in a statement, "His desire to destroy the city of New Orleans and its people who refused to surrender to his domination in January (when Long forced out the city election) has been without success. The madman that it knows no bounds. This usurpation of the assessor's office will not be recognized by the city of New Orleans."

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—(P)—More men and arms were rushed today to defend city troops against the National guard forces "commanded" by Senator Huey P. Long, who Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley accuses of trying to seize the city's police power.

Long made a show of disbanding his 500 state soldiers, mobilized on the edge of the city, and tension in the "war" over the approaching congressional primary eased somewhat.

Mayor Walmsley's police force, raised to 1,400 since he added 500 new men, was armed to the teeth.

The bitter struggle between the Louisiana "Knights," dictators of state affairs, and Walmsley, leader of the city forces, took a new turn as Governor O. K. Allen ordered state troops to search out the city's red light district and gambling dens, which only the use of force, unless otherwise ordered by me hereafter."

Mayor Walmsley said the "moral crusade" was just a "smoke screen" to conceal the senator's real purpose of taking over the city government and influencing the primary election in September, in which both he and Long are supporting rival candidates.

Late last night, Superintendent of Police George Rye dispatched details of police to Mayor Walmsley's City Hall, in City Hall, and the assessors' office.

The assessor's office is in the city hall, across the street from the registration voting office, over which Governor Allen proclaimed martial law Monday night just before guardsmen forced in the door and took forcible possession.

The guardsmen were still there today, fully armed, and manning machine guns pointed toward city hall.

CONTACTS

Among Americans received in formal audience by the richest president were:

Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes; James Speyer, New York banker; Charles Nagel, New York lawyer; Fort. William Shepherd of Columbia University and Mrs. Shepherd; Charles Younggreen, then president of the International Association of American Ambassadors; Frederick M. Sackett, former United States ambassador to Germany; Dr. Ferdinand Thun, Reading, Pa.; Henry Goldman, New York philanthropist; William E. Dood, president United States ambassador and Oliver Sprague, former treasury adviser.

Outstanding among the titled personages entertained by Von Hindenburg while he was president were King Gustave of Sweden, Christian of Denmark, Faud of Egypt, Boris of Bulgaria, Amanullah of Afghanistan and recently the King and Queen of Siam.

In the same international orbit of "Hindenburg visitors" walked a varied array of famous athletes, ocean fliers, world artists, high church dignitaries and business men.

On the list of his callers were such names as Umberto Nobile, Italian flier; Mary Booth of the Salvation Army; Prof. Ernesto Quezada, the savant of Argentina; and Herman Koehl and W. Gross, German trans-Atlantic fliers.

In his social life during his presidency Von Hindenburg repeatedly proved himself to be no ordinary military man, but a person capable of turning a phrase easily and quickly.

The outstanding of men which he gained in years of military life had him in good service when he put aside his uniform for a track coat.

Guard's Gunfire Halted Another Harlem Break

HOUSTON, Aug. 1.—(P)—Gunfire of a guard halted a second break in night from the Harlem state prison farm, 25 miles west of Houston, from which nine convicts fled Sunday night.

The shots brought down Leslie Stewart, Dallas convict, and halted two other prisoners as they fled from a field. Stewart, serving 25 years for kidnapping, theft and robbery, was shot above the heart by Guard Lonnie Stanford, Captain A. N. Owen, manager of the farm reported.

After Stewart was wounded, Stanford halted the other two convicts, Lloyd Carter of Stephens county, serving two years for conspiracy to commit a felon and theft over $50; and Degan Joyce, of Dallas, serving 25 years for robbery.

The attempted break came as Captain Owen and a posse recaptured Jack Cabe of Dallas, serving 25 years for robbery, and Robert Thompson of Eastland county, serving two years for burglary and theft. The two were run down by bloodhounds and neither offered resistance.

Three others were captured yesterday, leaving Houston and on the way to Richmond. Lewis Carter of Dallas, serving 99 years for robbery, was drowned in Oyster Creek, which borders the prison farm.

"Rainmaker" to Try Bombing on Friday

WAXAHACHIE, Aug. 2.—(P)—Exploding bombs will be used by two men in an airplane tomorrow in an effort to produce rain if the weather is cloudy.

James A. Boze, director of the test, said the exact time of the "bombardment" would "depend largely upon just when would be the best opportunity at a lambent of the clouds if there are any."

Six hundred powerful bombs will be exploded over a farm three miles north of Waxahachie, according to the plan of Boze and Wilfred Bottenfield, his pilot. They will be lowered and set off from an eight-passenger plane.

ROBBERS

Descriptions of the robbers led officers to believe that they may have been the desperate trio of criminals who escaped from the death house in Huntsville penitentiary a week ago after a bloody battle with prison guards.

One of the robbers was said to be a blond answering the description of Hamilton. Another answered the description of "Blackie" Thompson, because of his black slicked-back hair. Only a meagre description of the man who waited in the car was obtained.

Sheriff Payne of Natchitoches and citizens of the Robelline community set out in pursuit of the robbers.

Reports stated that the men earlier in the day held up a traveling salesman near Many, Sabine parish and stole his sedan just off the highway. It was the sedan in which they escaped.

Another report was that the robbers some distance out of Robelline transferred to another sedan, bearing Texas license No. 727,082.

English, in a telephone conversation, declared a check-up to determine the exact loss had not been made an hour after the robbery.

RUNAWAY COLLEGE BOY IS ARRAIGNED ON MURDER CHARGE

ENTERS PLEA NOT GUILTY AFTER SURRENDERING TO ATTORNEY TUESDAY

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 1.—(P)—Neal Myers, runaway college boy pleaded not guilty at arraignment today on a charge of murdering Marian Mills, 20-year-old campus beauty at the University of Oklahoma.

A crowd of curious spectators thronged the courtroom of Justice of the Peace J. D. Grigsby. The crowd trailed the youth as he was led to the courtroom and as he was jailed after the hearing.

Judge Grigsby set the date of the preliminary hearing for next Saturday at 10 a. m. but County Attorney Paul Updegraff announced that the state would not be ready by that time due to uncertainty as to finding witnesses.

The court indicated that if the state is not ready Saturday, a continuance will be granted.

The youth's father, Dr. P. B. Myers of El Reno, was in the courtroom beside his son, but the mother was absent. Neal, 20, a family of Miss Mills was present.

The boy presented a much altered appearance. He was dressed in white trousers and was nervous throughout the proceedings.

Young Myers was plainly nervous throughout the proceedings, which lasted only a few minutes.

An attorney, W. P. Morrison, entered the not guilty plea, as Neal fingered a fraternity ring he wore.

Other attorneys representing him were Jim Rinehart, El Reno, and Person Woodall, Norman.

Girl's Friends Present.

In the crowd of spectators were many friends of Miss Mills, the daughter of a University of Oklahoma professor. The girl died allegedly after an attempt to prevent motherhood.

Young Myers said he became unbalanced and "couldn't face the disgrace" he felt was connected with the girl's death.

He fled the day the girl died, three weeks ago, and told officers last night he had wandered about in the Southwest, "not caring where I went." A few days ago he communicated with one of his attorneys from Denver, Colo., and said he had been in jail.

Myers will stay in jail for a time, at least, since a murder charge in bailable in Oklahoma only upon district court habeas corpus.

Claims Operation Caused Death.

His attorneys indicated this will not be tried unless they feel the preliminary hearing and trial is being needlessly delayed.

Attorney Updegraff disclosed, for the first time, that physicians who conducted an autopsy found that the girl's death followed an attempted instrumental operation.

Previously, authorities had been told by Hazel Brown, fraternity house cook and owner of the apartment where Miss Mills died, that she followed her lover, Myers, to a "quick" medical remedy.

Mrs. Brown is under bond as a material witness.

Dr. Myers, the father, told newsmen he felt that the blame for Neal's act partially "rests on me."

"I have been a stern, strict father," he said, "I have given my boys severe lectures on morality and right living. When I let them drive the car I said, 'Now, if you speed in this car and get arrested don't call on me. I won't come to the jail to get you out.'"

Took Wrong Attitude.

"I have told them I expected them to stay out of trouble. I can see now my mistake. I should have told them to do everything possible to avoid trouble, but if they got into trouble to come first to me."

"I see that, because of my strictness, when Neal got into trouble he was afraid to come to me."

"Is that it, Neal?" he asked.

The boy nodded.

County Attorney Updegraff, declaring the boys only motive for flight was to escape prosecution, declared:

He has been making a play for the sympathy of the press. Under the law he is guilty of murder and he will be prosecuted vigorously."

Oklahoma Student Surrenders to His Attorney Wednesday

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 1.—(P)—A haggard Neal Myers surrendered today to face murder charges in the death of Marian Mills, 20-year-old campus beauty queen.

Wearied and half-crazed by three weeks of mad and aimless flight, the 21-year-old pharmacy student returned to his attorney, W. P. Morrison, former state senator of Oklahoma City.

In unkempt clothes, worn by 21 days of privation and fear, Myers sat in Morrison's luxurious home and told with downcast eyes and halting voice of his wandering in Texas, back through Oklahoma into Colorado, and finally of his death to Oklahoma City from Denver in the automobile of his friend, James Rinehart, El Reno attorney.

"I committed no crime," he said, "just couldn't face the disgrace."

With his attorneys, and his father, Dr. P. B. Myers of El Reno, who patted him reassuringly on the shoulder as he related his ghastly experience, he was prepared to face arraignment at 10 o'clock this morning.

Fled on July 10.

He began his flight July 10 after summoning Dr. E. F. Stephens to the home of Mrs. Hazel Brown, fraternity house cook, where the girl died after allegedly taking a quick remedy to avert impending motherhood.

"I didn't know where I was going," he went on, "I knew I had to get out. I couldn't stand the disgrace and scandal it would bring to my family and to the Mills family."

It was two days later, he said, when he learned her story, his campus sweetheart was dead. He read it in a Corpus Christi, Tex., newspaper.

"She was feeling fine right up to the time she collapsed," he

Body Missing Youth Is Found Beside Highway

SLATON, Aug. 1.—(P)—The body of a 16-year-old boy found today on the highway five miles west of Slaton was identified as that of Jerry Besson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Burselson of the Posey community.

He was last seen when he left his home, three miles from Slaton, the body was found, for Slaton to attend church last night. A boy with him when he left was caught. Officers from Lubbock and Slaton who worked on the case, withheld a verdict.

"I got scared then because I thought she was dying. Then, as I got more scared, I didn't know what I was doing. It came on her so quick that I couldn't even think."

All that came to me was the awful scandal that would come to the Mills and my family. I loved Marian and we had planned to get married." His voice faded.

"I had tried to get her to marry me before, but she wouldn't do it."

Myers was prompted by Rinehart and Person Woodall, Norman attorney, but on advice of his counsel refused to discuss what took place in the cook's apartment during the 24 hours that preceded the girl's death.

Myers said he did not know that he had been charged with murder.

His return was brought about by Rinehart, to whom the youth had been hiding out.

"I knew that he must have been half-crazed from the letter," Rinehart said, "and I wanted to take no chance on anything happening to him. I could see he was in a bad way. I telegraphed him to meet me at the Albany hotel in Denver at 10:30 a. m. Monday morning. He met me there. We started home about 3 p. m."

Myers was earlier almost to the hour, the campus beauty was found dead.

Mrs. Brown, confidante of many students, after rigorous questioning by County Attorney Paul Updegraff, told of the young couple's anxiety and fear and that they had said "we would rather die than have our families know."

Under their frantic urging, she said, she permitted them to come to her home July 9, where they remained overnight.

Marian had left her parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. Elbert Mills, of the pretext of going to a Tulsa house party.

That night the alleged "treatment" was begun. Next day Marian died.

Mrs. Brown, after being held in jail a week, was released under $2,500 bond as a material witness.

Myers was charged with murder. But he could not be held, for his abandoned car was found in Houston but Myers had vanished.

He told of leaping in fright from his car and plunging into the woods, gasping his arms and legs as he tore blindly about, half-dressed, finally he dropped down and slept in the bushes.

Wandered Over Country.

From then on he wandered about subsisting as best he could, on meals he begged from door to door, and on fish he caught with an improvised line.

"I wasn't planning anything," he said, "I was just wandering."

Livid scars streaked his arms where he had slashed them as he fled. Infection in the wounds made him ill and unable to walk for two days.

Then I got so I could walk a short distance at a time. When my legs began to hurt, I would sit down and rest.

The unhappy youth was a far cry from the immaculate campus lover. He wore a soiled blue shirt, a pair of ragged gray trousers and greasy-smeared white shoes.

"He is dressed up now to what he was when I found him," said Rinehart dryly.

RELIEF OFFICIALS TEN LARGEST TEXAS COUNTIES CONFER

ADOPT RESOLUTION ASKING SPECIAL SESSION NOT LATER THAN AUGUST 13

GALVESTON, July 31.—(P)—Relief officials from ten of the largest counties of the state today adopted a resolution calling on Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson to call a special session of the legislature not later than Aug. 13 to authorize sale of the remaining state relief bonds.

The move was advocated "in view of the critical situation which will exist when current funds are possibly exhausted by the end of this month."

Mayor Oscar Holcomb of Houston, Mayor Tom Miller of Austin and William Strauss, Houston civic worker, were named to go to Austin Wednesday and personally present the resolution to the chief executive.

Another resolution empowered the three to ask the governor to call a conference of mayors, county judges and relief officials before a special session to assemble facts of the situation.

FINAL TABULATION SHOWS M'CRAW BE LEADING WOODWARD

DALLAS, Aug. 1.—(P)—William McGraw again moved into first place in the attorney general's race today, when the Texas Election Bureau, Inc., announced that its final tabulation last night of votes in Saturday's Democratic primary giving the lead to Walter Woodward was in error.

A. F. Honnig, in charge of the bureau, said the corrected figures gave McGraw 326,467 and Woodward 319,250. The mistake occurred in entering the Dallas county tabulation.

DALLAS, Aug. 1.—(P)—The Texas election bureau's final, unofficial tabulation of votes from last Saturday's democratic primary in the state, accounting for 901,354 votes out of an estimated 1,000,000 cast, revealed today that Attorney General James V. Allred outdistanced Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls attorney, by 50,000 votes in the governor's race.

Pro and con leaders of the bureau were closed last night, returns had been received from 252 of the state's 254 counties, with only 176 of them complete. Reports from Austin said the official tabulation in the secretary of state's office was proceeding slowly, with returns from only 100 counties received, although under an amendment to the election law, county officials were obliged to send them in immediately after the count was completed, under penalty of a heavy fine for failure to do so.

However, the Texas Election Bureau, Inc., maintained by Texas newspapers, estimated that on the basis of returns already tabulated, the ratios between the respective candidates would hold in a complete, official accounting.

The two high candidates must contend for the nomination in the August 25 run-off and both already are laying plans for an intensive campaign. Hunter announced he would make the opening speech of his run-off tour Friday night at Hillsboro.

In the attorney general's race, the returns are slower, until the final tabulation of the election bureau between William McGraw, former Dallas district attorney, and State Senator Walter Woodward, with McGraw holding a count.

The final tabulation showed: For governor: Allred 269,470; Hunter 219,354; Charles C. McDonald 198,001; Clint C. Small, 111,510; Edgar E. Witt 56,598; Haury Hughes 51,248.

For attorney general: Woodward 319,250; McGraw 326,467; Clyde Smith 172,768.

For railroad commissioner: Lon A. Smith 237,637; John Pundt 200,868; W. Gregory Hatcher 169,190; H. O. Johnson 121,563; James McNeese 65,865.

Child Is Killed In Tourist Camp By Lone Robber

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 2.—(P)—Ten-year-old Bernice Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hoffman of Beaumont, Texas, was shot and fatally wounded early today by an unidentified prowler who attempted to enter the cabin occupied by the Hoffmans.

The little girl was shot as she lay asleep on a cot near the bed occupied by her parents and a younger sister and brother. The bullet fired through a screen door pierced the child's head.

Police and deputy sheriff's swarmed the scene soon after the shooting at 1:15 a. m., and bloodhounds were put on the trail.

The shooting occurred during an attempted robbery of the Hoffmans. A man occupying an adjoining cabin said that he was awakened by voices and heard "some one standing between the bins command Hoffman to hand over his trousers. The robber apparently found no money in the trousers and ordered Hoffman to hand him a knife. The pair hanging nearby, a shot then was fired. The bullet struck the sleeping child.

Hoffman leaped from his bed and fired his shotgun into the air to wake up the camp.

The Hoffmans came here about four days ago.

DIPLOMATS GASP AT SWANSON TALK REDUCING TONNAGE

LONDON, Eng., Aug. 2.—(P)—Many diplomats gasped today at the suggestion of Secretary of the Navy Swanson for a cut in naval tonnage power.

Naval experts showed little apparent surprise, however, at the possibility of a drastic reduction of 20 to 30 per cent reduction at the 1935 naval conference. They viewed the American secretary's statement as the first definite proposal of reduction offered by any nation.

Swanson's views were regarded in some quarters as an adroit way of giving the other powers something to think about during the summer as warships indicate that the United States will take the lead in fall conversations to bring about a reduction.

TOKYO, Aug. 2.—(P)—The Renzo (Japanese) news agency reported today that naval circles reject the suggestion of Secretary of the Navy Swanson for the reduction of naval tonnage by 20 per cent, protesting that such reduction would give all the advantages to the United States and would perpetuate the 5-5-3 ratio they are determined to abolish.

They were reported to feel that such all-around reductions, of tonnage would further cut Japan's chances of naval victory over the United States and Great Britain. They said that the United States would be able to effect such a reduction by scrapping obsolete craft while Japan would be forced to scrap new ships.

Walter Johnson Is Lost to Tribe From Attack of Pleurisy

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—(P)—Walter Johnson, manager of the Cleveland Indians, was in a hospital today suffering from acute pleurisy and possibly pneumonia. He will be lost to the team for at least two weeks, and if any complications appear, his enforced rest will last much longer.

This is Johnson's first serious illness since 1929 when he suffered a kidney infection, but it comes at a time when the Indians are not in the fight for the American league pennant.

When taken to the hospital last night, Johnson's first request was that Kamm be placed in charge of the team.

PRESIDENT SAILS ALONG COAST AFTER LONG OCEAN TRIP

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON ABOARD THE CRUISER NEW ORLEANS En Route with President Roosevelt to Astoria, Ore.

Aug. 2.—(P)—President Roosevelt sailed along the shores of the United States today, home from an epochal voyage to American territories.

The cruisers Houston and New Orleans crept slowly along the Oregon coast and pointed for a swing into the Columbia river—the water avenue of the Pacific Northwest—by early afternoon.

Refreshed by a month at sea and satisfied with the status of the American ocean outposts, Roosevelt was eager to go over his own continental soil again. His trunk were packed full of reports and data.

After rounding the cape into the Columbia, the presidential flotilla will stop off Astoria before proceeding up the historic Columbia.

The president will embark from his long sea journey at Portland Friday morning. He will immediately set out for a cross-country train trip with first stops at the Bonneville project in Oregon and the Grand Coulee power and irrigation project in Washington. He will then head for Glacier national park where he will spend Sunday.

Glider "Train" Is Forced Down At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2.—(P)—A glider "train" en route from New York to Washington made an unscheduled stop at Philadelphia today when the airplane towing the three motorless ships virtually exhausted its gasoline in fighting headwinds on the first leg of the flight.

The four ships landed safely. Preparations were started immediately to resume the flight to Baltimore and then to the nation's capital. Only one glider was to have left the tow line Philadelphia.
